A small number of portable fold- out stools will be available to borrow from the front desks of the Streetlife Museum and Hull and East Riding Museum for anyone who may find it difficult to stand during performances.

Toilets

There are toilets including baby change and accessible toilets in each museum.

The nearest changing places are at The Guildhall on Alfred Gelder Street and in Trinity Market (accessed via a RADAR key which can be collected from any market vendor.)

British Sign Language Interpretation

A selection of performances during the event will be British Sign Language interpreted. Please see the schedules for the day which can be downloaded below for these times.

Relaxed craft sessions

On each event day, a relaxed craft session where children can have a go at the crafts available more widely at the event, but in a quieter environment with limited numbers of people, will take place. This session is designed for people who are disabled, neurodivergent or experience anxiety, who would find it difficult to attend the drop-in craft activities at the event. It takes place at the start of the event day when the event is normally quieter.

Booking for these crafts is essential and numbers are limited. You can book a ticket here:

Quieter times, quieter spaces and breakout room

Expected busiest times	1pm - 4pm.
Expected Quietest Times	11am - 1pm.

The galleries of the Hull and East Riding Museum and Wilberforce House Museum, and the upstairs galleries of the Streetlife Museum will be quieter areas of the Museums Quarter during the event.

A small quiet room will be available in Streetlife Museum for anyone who needs it during the event. Please just ask at the front desk if you would like access.

Sensory resources, including ear defenders are also available to borrow from the front desks of each site.

On Saturday 25 November, there are also Christmas activities taking place in Hull Minster and Trinity Square 11am-4pm.

Finally, although not part of the event, Ferens Art Gallery in Queen Victoria Square will also be open as usual on both days, and the Hands on History Museum, in Trinity Square, will be open 12pm-4pm on Saturday 25 November. These will also likely be quieter venues.
